Who we are

Who is providing this notice?

Columbia Banking System, Inc., parent company of Columbia Bank and their family of companies, including Financial Pacific Leasing, Inc.

What we do

How does Columbia Banking System protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

Additionally, we assess current risks to design specific safeguards that protect customer information and have processes in place to deal with information security incidents if they occur.

How does Columbia Banking System collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you:

- Open an account or make deposits or withdrawals from your accounts
- Direct us to buy or sell your securities
- Provide your employment history or employment information

We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only:

- Sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- Affiliates from using your information to market to you
- Sharing for non-affiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more on your rights under state law.
